

BRITISH CONTINUE ADVANCE; BERLIN ADMITS REVERSES

SEVERAL IMPORTANT POSITIONS HAVE BEEN TAKEN ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

MORE RUSSIANS IN FRANCE

Sixth Contingent Disembarked Today
After Journey of 17,500
Miles.

(Associated Press)
Paris officially reports the failure of two German attacks in Lorraine
last night, with comparative quiet on the Verdun front.

More Russians Land.
A contingent of Russian troops,
the sixth to reach France, disembarked
at Brest, France, today. The Russians assembled at Moscow, and proceeded by land to Manchuria, thence by the Suez canal, a distance of 17,
500 miles.

Many Russians Killed.
Berlin officially announces the withdrawal of German troops under Gen.
Von Linsingen southwest of Lutsk to a point behind the river Lipa.

The Overseas Agency of Berlin says
according to an official report from Petrograd in the period between the beginning of the Russian offensive and July 1, the Russian killed reached 14,900 officers and 248,000 men.

British Progressing.
London stated that British troops
had today captured a German trench in the neighborhood of Pozieres and that the German second line position
over a front of 1500 yards northwest of Bazentine in the Lept woods had been captured by the British in a stormy attack. The captured positions are important, the war office says.

Heavy Daily Expense.
The Chancellor of the Exchequer
announced that the daily British expenditure is now more than 6,000,000 pounds.

LA SALLE STRIKE MAY BE SETTLED SHORTLY

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS MADE
AT CONFERENCE—TROOPS ARE INACTIVE.

(Special to Telegraph)
LaSalle, July 17—Today there were indications that the troubles between the cement mill operators and their striking employees will be settled before the end of the week. At a conference between representatives of the mill owners and the workers
held this morning very satisfactory progress was made, and another meeting will be held tomorrow.

The situation here is very quiet.
There has been no need of the troops and they are still encamped on the high school grounds, no guard or picket duty having been necessary
since their arrival.

Lowden's Prospects Becoming Brighter As Primary Approaches

Chicago, July 17—Now that the republican candidates for governor all are announced and the contest has shaped as a triangle, political experts have sharpened their pencils and plunged into analytical figures on the outcome of the primaries September 13. After elimination of visions colored by prejudices, there remain sufficient undisputed facts to permit of fairly reasonable forecasts.

To most of the politicians, a readjustment of vote figures seems to have been made necessary by the entrance of Senator Morton D. Hull into the race as a rival of Col. Frank O.
Lowden and former Collector of International Revenue Frank L. Smith, both idly doing so. The situation indicates of whom are "downstate," while Mr.
Hull is a Chicagoan.

Deneen Lost Strength.
A division of the republican vote along purely geographical lines would operate favorably to Mr. Hull—Chicago against a split downstate vote.
Such a division, however, is generally considered of negligible importance in calculation of the probable outcome, since the Deneen wing of

ORPET FOUND NOT GUILTY

Jury Acquits Student Accused of Murdering Marion Lambert.

Waukegan, Ill., July 17.—William H.
Orpet, the university student charged with murdering Marion Lambert, a high school girl and his former sweetheart, was found not guilty by a jury in Judge Donnelly's court after five hours' deliberation. The jury took three ballots, the first two standing 11 to 1 for acquittal.

The talesmen carried with them instructions from Judge Donnelly which James H. Wilkerson and Ralph F.
Potter, Orpet's counsel, considered highly favorable to the defendant in their interpretation of reasonable doubt as applied to the series of circumstances which constituted the principal part of the evidence. Five superfluous counts of the ten in the indictment against the defendant
were stricken out by the court.

MILLER HITS HIGH SPOTS THIS MORN

DIXON MAN DRIVES AT RECORD
SPEED FROM ROCHELLE TO DIXON.

IGNITION TROUBLE WEST OF HERE

But for ignition trouble, which slowed the speed of the engine, Jason Miller would undoubtedly have hung up a new record for stock-car speed between Rochelle and Clinton this morning when he piloted the Saxon relay between the two cities. The Indiana man was nearly 12 hours late in reaching Rochelle, getting there at 11:50 this morning instead of at midnight.

At 11:52 Mr. Miller with Jacob Hermann as mechanic, picked up the factory observer at Rochelle, and at 12:20 they dashed through Dixon.
The 28 miles between Rochelle and Dixon was covered in 28 minutes
flat.

Advices from the Saxon agency in Clinton were to the effect that ignition trouble at Morrison has delayed the speeders, but in spite of the trouble they arrived in Clinton at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Outfit, Taken from Dixon Streets,
Discovered Near Mt. Union

Late Sunday evening a horse and buggy which was taken from the streets of Dixon Saturday evening was turned over to the owner, J. Mc Kenna, who lives three miles west of Dixon. The horse with the harness on was unhitched from the buggy and turned loose about one mile east of the Hills farm. It is apparent that the rig was taken from the streets by some person who wished to get home without having to walk. The horse was not abused or driven hard and the buggy was not damaged in any way.

Thrilling Account Of Shark's Raid In Waters Of Creek

Miss Collin, superintendent of the up

Dixon hospital, this morning received yesterday afternoon killed a 12-year-old boy and a 24-year-old youth and seriously wounded a 14-year-old lad.
No more spectacular raid of inland or coast waters was ever made, and last night the water resort population of this state was in a condition of excitement.

Lester Stillwell * * * was the first victim of the hungry man-eater. With a party of boys he was swimming in the creek. The boys had been enjoying their dip in the water and were coming out when the attack occurred. Stillwell had not made his way to the ladder and the boys heard him scream. His scream was nothing more than a groan, according to his brother. The lad uttered "Oh" and sank and nothing more has been seen of him. All that appeared on the surface was a tint of deep crimson and a few bubbles. The shark had taken his first victim in his death-dealing

THE SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

The safe and sane Fourth of July was invented by the insurance companies in a mad effort to get out of paying mankind its just dues. Methuselah, who never used fireworks, whiskey, cigarettes or politics, lived to be 965 years old. By means of biteless whisky, ruthless politics, flyless infants and the denatured Fourth of July, the insurance companies hope to prolong the life of man until he will have to pay more than 9000 annual premiums on $1,000 life insurance policy before the bereaved family can cash in.

The safe and sane Fourth is bangleless and harmless and is as gentle to have around as a fur muff. It is prepared by taking the available supply of fireworks and gunpowder and soaking it carefully in perfumed water for two weeks before the celebration. A firecracker treated in this way is as gentle as a lamb and can be dragged around by the fuse with perfect safety.

The inventors of the plush velvet Fourth of July declare that it will save in one year two carloads of legs, four wagonloads of fingers and a bushel of eyes, to say nothing of making it unnecessary to unscramble the nation's nerves the next day. The old-fashioned Fourth, they declare, is hideously wasteful and after a real successful celebration of the jambang same kind, there are often not enough entire boys in a town to bring home a pound of meat for dinner.

Many people are inclined to wonder if a Fourth of July with the fuse pulled out of it will be worth while. The reformers declare that it can be made very exciting. Early in the morning the American flag should be waved, after which a picnic dinner seasoned to taste with red ants can be given, and the Declaration of Independence can be read in a proud, reckless voice. After this, if the nerves of the company can stand it, red, white and blue cream can be devoured with patriotic whoops and an inflammable sun set, under proper precautions, can be pulled off. If a nerve powder is taken before retiring, no ill effects from such a celebration should be noticed the next day.

The safe and sane Fourth of July will be a great boon to timid housewives, and will also make it unnecessary to wrap up about 100,000 future dark horse presidential candidates annually in cotton batting at vast expense. Put it will provide means of getting rid of the loud roared mental vacuum who ogles young women on the streets 364 days in the year and on the 365th explodes torpedoes in a can until he blows himself up amid general joy.

Dramatic Notes

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN FLOOD

Great Loss of Property Also is Reported in North Carolina.

Asheville, N. C., July 17.—Five persons are reported to have lost their lives and hundreds have been made homeless by a flood which carried away mills and homes along the banks of the French Broad River here. The damage is estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

The flood waters invaded the Vanderbilt estate, Biltmore, and an unverified report that Captain J. C. Sipe, Miss Mabel Foster and Miss Charlotte Walker had been drowned there.

Sentenced to Quit Smiling.

New York, July 17.—Magistrate Krotel, in the men's night court, sentenced Philip Levine, eighteen, of Brooklyn, never to smile or flirt with any girl in New York as long as he lives. Levine had been arrested on complaint of Dora Rubinowitz, thirteen, who alleged he smiled at her and blew smoke at her on an elevated train.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food we eat taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and stomach-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

LOWDEN'S PROSPECTS BECOMING BRIGHTER

Women For Lowden.

"My deep interest in the woman suffrage movement," said Mrs. Severin, "makes it impossible for me to support Senator Hull. We women are for Lowden because Lowden is for us."

As seen from here, the downstate situation looks like a split between Smith and Hull of forces that otherwise might have been united on Smith "to beat Lowden." This idea has been brought out editorially by the Dixon Telegraph, which says:

"It looks as though Mr. Hull might be the best friend Colonel Lowden will have in the state, for with Col. Smith and Mr. Hull both running against Lowden, what little Lowden opposition there may be in the state will be divided, making things almost too easy for the Ogle county candidate."

Lowden in First Place.

Assuming that Colonel Smith, because he is a "downstate" man, will run ahead of Mr. Hull outside of Chicago and that Mr. Hull, in spite of political reasons and his anti-suffrage record, will be able to do better than Col. Smith in Cook county, most politicians are in doubt only as to whether Smith or Hull will run third, first place being generally conceded to Lowden as matters stand. The betters usually places the three candidates in the order, Lowden, Smith, Hull.

Wants Hull's Money.

Because of the prevalent idea that Mr. Deneen does not hope to see Mr. Hull come under the wire better than second, or perhaps even third, there has been much guessing as to why he brought Mr. Hull into the race. The usual view is that Mr. Deneen is chiefly interested in his local county state and the campaign fund therefore available through Mr. Hull, who is a man of wealth, and is said to have pledged $50,000 for use in the primaries.

Lowden's Fourth Week.

This is Col. Lowden's fourth week on the stump. Today he attended a picnic of the Loyal Order of Moose at Mooseheart and then will devote Tuesday and Wednesday to Decatur and nearby places in Macon county. He is scheduled for Champaign and Urbana on Thursday and will deliver a "Republican speech" at the Central Chautauqua next Saturday.

Describing the progress of the campaign, former Attorney General W. H. Stead, who is in charge, noted that more than 5,000 pledge cards have been signed in Winnebago county alone; that a majority of Illinois Republican newspapers, "outside of Cook county," have declared for Lowden and that the colonel's frank declaration in favor of full woman suffrage has brought him the supporting influence of most of the women.

John Hoff of Nachusa was here Saturday.

G. W. Carpenter and family motored to Clinton, Ia., Saturday to visit friends.

TRAMP DIES AFTER A REMARKABLE FINDING GOLD STATEMENT

AGED CALIFORNIA PROSPECTOR HAD REFUSED $60,000 FOR DISCOVERED TREASURE

HAD SEARCHED YEARS FOR DUST

Pocket of Valuable Ore Found on Claim Forty Miles From Railroad

San Bernardino, Cal.—Found dead on the desert two days after he had refused $60,000 for a gold mine which he had discovered, the story of William Thornton, desert rat, reads like a page of fiction.

As wealth, riches and all that go with them were within reach of the old prospector, fate decreed that he should never live to enjoy them, as he was found dead a few hours later near Dale.

Thornton, according to Sheriff J. L. McMin, who conducted the inquest, had searched the desert for years, hunting for the ore which would bring him riches. The man originally lived in Texas, but he was a familiar character for years around Amboy and Dale.

With two other men Thornton at last found a flash of pay dirt near a claim known as "29 Palms." It was located near Dale, which is 40 miles from the railroad. The three men with Thornton leading in the work, dug deep into the property and soon ore, which proved beyond all doubt that the claim was one of the richest in the district, was discovered.

Several mining men from Los Angeles, hearing of the strike, visited the property and quickly proffered an offer of $60,000 for Thornton for the claim. Thornton refused the offer, thinking it worth twice that amount when it was developed.

Two days later Thornton was taken sick and died that day. Sheriff McMin was notified and he conducted the inquest, after making the long trip in a motor car with J. L. Robinson and Morris Spellman.

FINGER PRINTS GIVE MONKEY THIEF AWAY

Crook Trapped by Use of Modern Crime Detection Methods—Left Marks on Grip.

New York.—Modern crime detection methods have been put into effect in the New York Zoo, Fred Engelholm, keeper of the monkey house, has caught a thieving orang outang by the fingerprint system.

Since flitting has been stopped in the various monkey houses things have been a bit dull, so the keepers of the zoo have been whiling away the dull hours lately by taking fingerprints of apes, monkeys and gorillas and comparing them with their own. Among other dainty hands which have been placed in the smudged pot for that purpose were those of Batu, the only orang outang in captivity in the Bronx.

Raymond Dittmars, curator, entered the monkey house the other day with a suit case, which he left near the door and then went to his office. When he returned an hour later the suit case was missing. A careful search revealed it behind a desk, and according to the story, the bag had a large fingerprint on it. Engelholm entered, examined the smudge and, according to the chatter is quoted as saying, "That is the fingerprint of Batu, the orang outang; she stole the bag and the fingerprint convinces me that she is a thief. I think I can explain the recent theft of an inkwell."

Clean Food Kills Cave Man

Milwaukee, Wis.—Starving because he was given wholesome food, and wretched because the accumulated dirt of twenty years had been scrubbed from his body, Ferdinand Nurnberg, 48 years old, died in the hospital of correction, where he had been removed.

The man's stomach accustomed to the filth of the garbage plant, revolted at clean food. For twenty years Nurnberg had lived within a few feet of the lake, but he never took a bath. At a local sanatorium he was scrubbed for two hours, the attendants using washing powder and scrub brushes.

Men Taller in the Morning

Washington.—Men are taller in the morning than in the evening, medical examiners for the United States Marine Corps declare, and the applicant for enlistment who is of medium or small stature has a better chance just after breakfast to meet the height requirements than at any other time during the day.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A pet white mouse saved the lives of nine persons the other day when the home of Thos. J. Romeck caught fire. The mouse ran across the baby's face; it cried and awakened the mother, who alarmed the household.

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the insane hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, but with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

FIVE SUSPECTS HELD IN M'DANIEL MURDER

Missouri Prosecutor Lured from Home and Wife Slain.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 17.—The police arrested five men, who are held pending investigation of the murder of Mrs. Oscar McDaniel, wife of the prosecuting attorney of Buchanan county.

Mrs. McDaniel's skull was crushed by assassins at her home about midnight, and she died at a hospital without having regained consciousness. An assassin fired five shots at her husband, who engaged in a pistol duel with the man. Neither was hit and the man escaped. The police connect the tragedy with an anonymous threatening letter received by McDaniel about a week ago.

McDaniel was summoned downtown by a telephone call about 11:30 p. m. The voice at the telephone said his brother was in a saloon and he had better come and take him home.

McDaniel went in his automobile to the saloon designated and found the call was a fake. He hurried back home, and as he stopped his car in front of the house a man opened fire on him from behind a tree.

After his assailant fled, the prosecutor hurried into the house and upstairs to his wife's room, where he found her senseless on the floor, her head terribly crushed. She had been beaten with a heavy blunt instrument.

HIDES HIS PROPERTY, GIVEN PRISON TERM

Victor Steiner Must Also Answer About Fires.

Springfield, Ill., July 17.—Victor Steiner, a clothing dealer of Decatur, who was adjudged bankrupt May 31, 1915, and who was found guilty by a jury in the federal court June 28 of concealing property to the amount of $1,600 with intent to defraud his creditors, was sentenced by Judge Landis of Chicago to a term of one year and one day in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Sentence was pronounced after the morning had been taken up in hearing evidence regarding statements made by Steiner at his trial that adjusters for the insurance companies who had adjusted a fire loss he sustained in Maroa some time ago had threatened to have him prosecuted in the state and federal courts for arson if he did not settle his loss for a certain amount.

After hearing the evidence the court decided that there was nothing to this charge. Steiner has been indicted by the grand jury of Macon county charged with setting fire to his store in Maroa with intent to defraud the insurance companies.

TO SAVE LIVES OF INDIAN BABIES

APPEAL MADE TO PRACTICALLY EVERY INDIAN AGENCY IN THE U. S.

WONDER PRIMITIVE PAPOOSE LIVES

Carlisle School Gets Interesting Reports and Contrasts From the Reservations

Carlisle, Pa.—In response to Commissioner of Indian Affairs Sells' appeal to superintendents of Indian schools, urging them to do their utmost to save the lives of Indian babies Superintendent Oscar H. Lipps of the Carlisle Indian school has received interesting information relating to aboriginal babies from practically every Indian agency.

Commissioner Sells believes that this campaign for better babies, the rescue of a race, calls for redoubled energy and zeal throughout the Indian service, for it means personal work and tireless patience.

Some of the photographs of Indian babies cared for in primitive fashion present rare contrasts to those of the more fortunate little reds who have advantages of civilization, such, for example, as the children of Carlisle graduates. All are fascinating spectacles of babyhood, though, and the only wonder is that the primitive papoose ever lives to grow up.

Dr. W. K. Callahan states that the papooses commonly come into the world well endowed physically, but old Indian customs of carelessness and neglect are responsible for many subsequent ills. The new born child is usually wrapped up in an old blanket for the first two or three weeks of his life and is not bathed until the mother is able to bathe it herself.

Dr. Charles L. Zimmerman of the Ponca agency, Oklahoma, believes that the first step in the instruction of the Indian mother as regards the health of her infant should be that of "proper feeding." An almost universal disease of Indian children is tuberculosis, and when one considers that 99 per cent of all children of 10 years of age in the white race are said to have tubercular implantation, he can appreciate its danger and importance in the tepee. Forced feeding and a daily bath for these cases will do much to overcome an inherited weakness.

Bridget C. Keough, field matron, St. Xavier, Mont., reports that in the Big Horn Valley, on the Crow reservation, Indian mothers are learning to take better care of their babies. While some still listen to the medicine women, or old grandmother, when the baby is sick the majority go to a doctor for advice and try to follow suggestions as to cleanliness and diet. The Crow mother will not prepare a layette for her baby, as it is a superstition among them that the baby will die if she clothes are made in advance.

Dr. Martin R. Reiber of Arizona, writing concerning Hopi Indian babies remarks that the living quarters and conditions of this Indian are not such as would be conducive to the health of the infant, and consequently the death rate is extremely high. Like the entire family the infant reposes only on blankets or sheep pelts on a bare, hard floor of clay. The one room house necessitates its occupancy by the entire family day and night; a door or window, if they have one, is seldom kept open even in the mildest weather; remnants of foodstuffs often litter the floor, and facilities for the disposal of garbage are deplorably inadequate; and moreover, the Hopi frequently does not take kindly to any suggestion that might remedy the situation. The water supply is inadequate, as it usually has to be carried a mile or more on the backs of the women or borros, and is often used for culinary and other purposes when alive with various larvae and absolutely unfit for human consumption.

Concerning the Apaches of Arizona, Tassie Mary Scott of the San Carlos Indian Agency, writes that the mothers bundle the babies into the carriers, tie them, allowing no room for the movement of the babies lower extremities (which is necessary for muscular development and exercise), or for the proper expansion of the abdominal muscles, or necessary respiration. They leave them so for hours, generally with a heavy blanket, thru which no air can penetrate, covering the whole carrier.

Bride Balks at Red Wig

Detroit, Mich.—Alla Mallard was in complete disguise at the time of his marriage to May Hassan.

His new little red wig didn't look like a wig at all. It looked just like his own hair.

His bride hadn't discovered the disguise when friends in Highland Park near this city, gathered to welcome the couple to their new home. It was then that Mallard drew his bride to him for the first kiss, and it was then that she discovered the disguise and went home to mother.

"I don't know what was the matter with that woman," Mallard said to Judge Mandell, while testifying for a divorce. "She never kissed me and never lived with me."

At the age of 21 a man has more ideals than ideas.

PHILADELPHIA IS ROCKED BY RAID

Police Pull off Stunt without Precedent.

522 ARRESTED IN RESORTS

Resorts All Over City Cleaned Up. Blacklegs, Criminals and a Few Prominent Young People Taken, Latter Must Marry at Once or Be Prosecuted.

Philadelphia, July 17.—A raid in which 104 resorts were cleaned up and 522 prisoners taken stunned the tendorloin. Among the men and women gathered in the police net were some of the most desperate and hardened characters in the country, and at least three couples of respectable families, not to mention many of hitherto unspotted reputation.

Hearings began before Magistrate Pennoch at midnight and continued until the afternoon. The three couples of good family must marry at once or be prosecuted. Only twenty women were discharged.

Lawyers Fight in Vain.

Professional loudmen, thieves, pickpockets and criminals of the lowest sort crowded the police stations where the hearings were held, while lawyers fought for the release of their clients—and for the most part lost their cases.

The very bottom of the underworld fell out. From 11 o'clock Saturday night, when the raids began, until late Sunday afternoon, every known rule in the tendorloin districts was turned topsy-turvy. There was not a branch of forbidden business which was not affected and shocked into momentary respectability.

Gamblers, although untouched, passed the tip, and their patrons fled. Street walkers mysteriously vanished from the highways, poolrooms put up the blinds, and policy sellers temporarily beat a discreet retreat. Drug vendors retired to their haunts.

Wild Scenes Prevail.

All were unmolested, however, with the exception of the keepers and frequenters of houses of ill repute. These women and those among whom they plied their trade were scooped up by the police amid scenes of wildest confusion. Everything started quietly and peacefully enough. Saturday night 300 policemen, in squads of ten, each under an experienced leader, assembled at the city hall. About 150 warrants were issued, and houses to be raided were assigned.

IT is not alone the youngsters who are glad that Ivory Soap floats. Everybody who uses it values this quality next to Ivory's mildness and purity.

In the bathtub it means not only convenience but freedom from possible injury to have the soap always at hand and in sight instead of at the bottom of the tub where it may be stepped on.

And in toilet or laundry use the floating cake is a great economy because it reminds one to take it from the water instead of sinking out of sight and mind to waste away.

J. O. Engleman, superintendent of schools of Decatur, in an address before the National Educational association, gave an interesting analysis of his study of the reading habits of 800 students in the high schools in that city. And in it he shows the waning popularity of writers who, a generation or two ago, held the center of the stage in the literary theatre. The report shows that one-fourth of the pupils do not read the daily papers, though the study was made when congress was in session, most of Europe was at war and the rest of it compelled to preserve an armed neutrality, when treaties were being broken, when ships were being sunk almost daily and when the waters, disturbed in 490 B. C. and again in 453 A. D., were once more the scene of great naval encounters. Without minimizing the importance of the Greek, Roman, Medieval or Modern History, the high school can not justify its course if it fails to use the daily papers to vitalize both medieval and text book modern history.

Seven out of eight students regularly read one or more magazines, the Youth's Companion leading in popularity. Seven hundred students read a total of 178 different magazines, but 65 of them have only one reader each. The latter list includes many of the magazines most widely read by scholarly adults.

Almost half of the students read no books not required by the teachers. The 400 students had voluntarily read a list including 418 different titles. It is significant to note what is not found in the list. Dickens, with his long array of novels, had but four readers; Hawthorne, two; Scott, two; Kipling, one; Cooper, two; Victor Hugo, two; Barrie, one; Milton, one; Tennyson, one; Kingsley, one; Shakespeare, one; Stevenson, none, and George Eliot, none.

In the eighth grade a larger percentage read the daily papers and a smaller percentage magazines. There was also more voluntary reading of books but the type of matter read is less commendable. Only 32 of 225 pupils acknowledge a love for poetry, and of these, only four are boys.

Comment on the showing made will not convey so clear an interpretation of its meaning as a careful perusal will bring to the careful student of conditions.

SIGNAL WHEN YOU STOP OR TURN.

When the driver or an occupant of an automobile holds his hand out to the side, or if the top is back, up in the air, he is signaling that he either intends to stop his car or make a right or left turn. The drivers of cars following him should be guided by these signals, and when in crowded places particularly, watch for them, for they will often save a smashed radiator or headlights. Furthermore, when driving in town or, in fact, anyplace where another car may be following closely, the good driver will give these signals, not only for the sake of those who may be following, but for his own safety. Never turn a corner when a car is directly behind without first giving such a warning, for the other car may attempt to pass you at the moment you turn, and a collision will result.

WELCOME HOME.

Among the rank and file of the Progressives there is a feeling that their mission as a party is ended, to be taken up and continued by the republican party. On the other hand the republicans not only welcome them into the party, but are ready to accord them the fullest recognition in their councils. With such a feeling of accord and amity on both sides it is not surprising that the amalgamation of the two parties should be accepted, as a matter of course, for it is the logical, sane and natural outcome of conditions that all reasonable men in both parties most sincerely desire.—Portland (Oregon) Telegram.

BATH HOUSE AT LOWELL.

A visitor at Lowell park yesterday would have seen the great need of a public bath-house. Hundreds of bathers were in the river and hundreds more wanted to go in, but the accommodations are so primitive that there is no possibility of handling any great crowd of bathers. The beach is good, and being shallow, it is fine for those learning to swim.

OUR BANK.

The banks may close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, or at noon, or they may not open at all if they don't want to, because, so far as we are personally concerned, our spare change is all invested in golf balls which are securely hidden away in the thick clover and the tall grass along the course at the Country club.

Raymond Robbins, Progressive and a member of the national committee, says he is going to support Wilson for president. He resisted the endorsement of Hughes. Mr. Robbins is merely returning to his own old home, for he has been a democrat for many years. He would be out of place in any other party.

Every time a citizen of Dixon crosses the Galena avenue bridge now, with the repairs going on and the confusion, rough floor and all, he says, "How badly we need a new bridge in Dixon." And it's true, we do need another bridge here. Well, why don't we do something?

Oiling the roads is a splendid innovation, but it should be done in moderation. If it is not practical to close the road to traffic while the oil is drying, only half of the road should be oiled first and the other half oiled when the first half is dried.

Daddy's Bedtime

How Kate
Story— Got Dinner For
Her Frederick.

"My stars," she cried,
"what shall I do?"

(Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales)

THE children settled down on daddy's lap, and he told them this bedtime story: "There was once a bride and groom, Kate and Frederick, who began housekeeping in a little green cottage. One day Frederick said: 'I am going out in the field to work. When I come in I shall be very hungry, so have something nice cooked and plenty of good ale for me.'

"When dinner time came Kate took a nice steak, which was all the meat she had, and put it on the fire to cook. The steak soon began to crackle and brown, and Kate turned it with a fork. 'The steak is almost ready, so I will go down cellar for the ale,' she said to herself.

"So she left the steak in the pan, took a jug and went down cellar to tap the ale cask. The ale was running into her jug when suddenly Kate cried, 'The dog will run away with the steak!'

"She ran upstairs, and, sure enough, the dog had the steak in his mouth and was running off with it. Away ran Kate after him, but the dog beat her running. So she turned around, and as she had run so fast after the dog she now walked home slowly to get cooled off.

"Now, all the time she had been running after the steak the tap had also been running. She had forgotten to turn it off when she ran upstairs, you see. When her jug was full the ale ran all over the floor till the cask was empty. 'My stars,' she cried, 'what shall I do to keep Frederick from seeing that soup?'

"At last she remembered a sack of meal that her husband had bought at the fair. She decided to sprinkle this on the cellar floor to sop up the spilled ale. 'What a lucky idea!' she said to herself. 'We now have a good use for that meal.' But as she was sprinkling the meal on the floor she was so clumsy that she managed to tip over her jug. All the ale for her husband's dinner went swimming over the cellar.

"So she sprinkled the last grain of meal over the slop. 'How neat and clean it looks!' said she to herself.

"At noon Frederick came home for his dinner. 'What to eat?' he asked.

"'Oh, Frederick,' she cried, 'I was cooking you a steak, and while I was downstairs drawing a jug of ale the dog stole the steak. I ran after him, but he got away, and while I ran the ale also ran, and when I tried to sop up the ale on the floor with the meal we got at the fair I upset the jug.'

"'Kate, why did you do all this?' asked her husband.

"'I did not know I was doing wrong. You should have told me,' Kate blamed Frederick, just the way Evelyn is apt to blame Jack for things."

Poisons In Daily Drink.

Dr. W. Scott Tebb, public analyst to the Borough of Southwark, London, has been making an inquiry on behalf of the Borough Council into the constituents of tea, to ascertain what injurious ingredients are present, and in his report he contrasts the tea drinking records of Great Britain and the countries, says Reynolds's Newspaper.

The only countries which approach or exceed Great Britain as tea drinkers are her colonies. Western Australia is easily first with 10.07 and all the other divisions of Australia exceed Great Britain.

"We drink far too much tea," concludes Dr. Tebb. He calculates that each person in Great Britain, on an average, takes a daily dose of 3.6 grains of alkaloid and 9.7 grains of tannin. This means that the average tea drinker takes half as much alkaloid and nearly as much tannin as the maximum allowed by the British pharmacopoeia for an occasional dose.

And of course many thousands of people drink a great deal more than the average dose.

Amusements of the Blind.

With closed eyes, two young men in the blind asylum were playing chess. The board they played on had the black squares raised and the white ones sunken, while the black pieces were rough and the white ones smooth.

"Give us this handicap on account of our blindness," said one of the young men, "and we will play as quick and accurate a game of chess as anybody. Give us checkers and a checker board constructed on the same plan, and there, too, our playing will equal yours."

"I would rather be blind than deaf," he went on. "Blindness doesn't rob you of much. The blind are excellent anglers. They play a good game of euchre, or poker, or bridge. They use cards that have embossed pips."

"The blind are good runners, good gymnasts. In our last sports the hundred yards were done in under twelve seconds, and on the horizontal and parallel bars the giant swing, the corkscrew, the straight arm balance and the finger balance were executed in a way that elicited salvos of applause."

PEOPLES COLUMN

THE CLERK'S SIDE OF IT

There are two sides, so they say, to every question. There are two sides to this question we feel sure. In Saturday's issue of the Telegraph was a story of a petition from farmers living south of Dixon, asking the Dixon stores to keep open evenings all during the week. The farmers would be pleased no doubt, but the clerks, the workers in the stores, would be the losers. Here is a letter from one who signs himself "A Clerk," explaining his side of the question.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING TELEGRAPH:

Dear Sir: I read your article in today's issue, relative to the Mr. Q. B. Countryman's interviewing the farmers of South Dixon to sign a petition for the stores to keep open every night in the week.

I, as a clerk, think there is about as much sense to ask the stores to keep open every night as it would be to ask them to keep open on Sunday.

Now, as a clerk, let me inform Mr. Farmer that the average clerk of Dixon does not get over ($13.99). Thirteen dollars per week and works hard ten hours; five days per week and fourteen hours on Saturday. Now, Mr. Farmer, don't you think a clerk earns his money?

The other point of the question is why go back to the stone age when stores kept open every night and had to give premiums to get the trade.

We are advancing more every year and will not be kept back by old time methods. Most of the farmers have cars and it only takes a few minutes time to run to town. And many of them have taught their wives to run the cars so they can run to town during the day to do their shopping.

And then there are wagons running through the country. So if a housewife runs short of groceries, she can obtain some from one of these wagons that carry a full line of groceries, to run her until she comes to town.

Yours respectfully,
A CLERK.

THRILLING ACCOUNT OF SHARKS RAID

cruise up the narrow creek.

Paid No Attention.

An hour afterwards W. Stanley Fisher, a powerful swimmer weighing 180 pounds, journeyed to the scene. He paid no attention to the shark stories of the companions of Stillwell. Clad in athletic undershirt and a pair of tights he dove in.

At 4:35 Fisher came to the surface. Just before he reached the top of the water a terrible commotion was seen and as his head protruded above the water he cried out: "He's got me."

Fisher Went Down.

Again the water turned a deep crimson. Fisher went down and as he came up a second time he was hardly able to scream. His companions were in a boat and as they reached his side it was plainly seen that the flesh had been ripped from the right leg from the hip to the knee.

Fisher was still conscious when taken from the water. He kept asking the physicians in attendance to allay the terrible pain he was suffering from the torn limb. He told those present that he had the Stillwell boy's body under his arm when he was attacked.

Fisher was hurried to the Long Branch hospital but the loss of blood was too much for him and he died in the evening.

The injured lad was Joseph Dunn, aged 14. The shark attacked him on his return from the first rampage. Young Dunn was just emerging from the water after his dive from the dock. As he was about to grasp hold of the dock in order to pull himself out he felt a terrible jerk on his leg. His companions on the dock grabbed hold of his hand and hauled him out.

The boy's left calf was badly torn, the flesh being ripped wide open by the monster's teeth.

DIXON CHILDREN TO ENTER MOOSEHEART

JUDGE KENT SECURES A PERMIT FOR CROFT CHILDREN'S ADMISSION.

Judge W. G. Kent appeared before the board of governors at Mooseheart Sunday morning as counsel for J. M. Croft, who desires to place his children in that institution. Owing to so many applications and a lack of room it is a difficult matter to place children unless the rules of the institution have been adhered to. Double orphans have first chance, children whose father is dead have the second chance and those whose mother is dead have third chance. In the case of Mr. Croft, neither of the parents are dead. Mr. Croft is suing for divorce and Judge Farrand has issued an injunction against taking the children from Mooseheart. The board passed favorably on the case after hearing the arguments presented by Judge Kent. The children will enter the institution week after next.

Kaiser At Somme.

A Reuter dispatch to London says it has been officially announced in Berlin that Emperor William is at the Somme sector.

Russians Advance.

Petrograd announces that the Russians are continuing their successful advance in the region of the Lower Lipa in Volpina. Yesterday nearly 15,000 prisoners were taken.

Berlin Admits Losses.

Berlin statement today said: An artillery bombardment of intense violence is in progress at many points from the Somme district north to the sea. The German lines are being heavily pounded by the British guns and the British have penetrated Ovillers wood.

More Positions Taken.

This afternoon London stated that a strong position at Waterlot Farm, east of Longueval and strongholds in Ovillers and LaBoisselle had been taken. At Bazentine-Lepetit the British found several hundred wounded Germans who had taken refuge in an enormous cellar. The captured ones' record of the German battalion showed 600 of its number had been killed by British shell fire.

London, July 17.—Desperate attacks by the Germans on the Picardy front in which they recaptured the village of Blaches and the height of La Malsouette from the French south of the Somme and recaptured Foreaux Wood after it had been abandoned by the British, marked the fighting on the western front. Paris announces the recapture of both positions lost by the French, attributing their temporary retreat to the "surprise attack" of the Germans. The official report from Berlin, however, declares part of Blaches is still in German hands.

Neither the British nor the French claim any new advances of importance for the day, the battle apparently having settled down into a furious artillery duel through which the British are preparing for another onslaught such as that which carried them into the German third line of defense Saturday, imperiling the base of Bapaume and the entire German system over a front of fifty miles or more.

Russians in Action.

The entry of the Russian forces into action on the western front is revealed for the first time in the official report from Paris at midnight. The czar's forces which arrived at Marcella several weeks ago after a trip of 17,000 miles by way of Vladivostok and the Suez Canal, have been thrown into action on the Champagne front. This is the first definite information as to their action since going into camp on French soil. Paris comments but briefly upon their work, saying that in the Champagne there was great activity by French and Russian patrols.

General Halg occupied his troops with the consolidation of the positions won in the sensational advance Saturday. He announces the discovery of great quantities of armament abandoned by the Germans in their hasty retreat.

British Retreat Explained.

The British retreat from Foreaux Wood is explained by the official statement as being the withdrawal of a detachment thrust forward into that position to cover the consolidation of the captured lines in the rear. The outlook for the French at Verdun is slightly improved, according to both the afternoon and midnight communiqués from Paris, and the Berlin official report. All these attempts show that the French have started heavy counter attacks in this region. Berlin admits that the French penetrated some trenches southwest of Thiamont and attacked in force at Froide Terre. The latter attack, Berlin says, was repulsed. Paris claims "considerable progress" west and south of Fleury.

Shurtz of Champaign, Ill., on the grounds of desertion. The couple were married March 12, 1908, and separated Dec. 27, 1912, she said.

She stated that there had been disagreements over money matters and over the children. She was allowed to resume the name of Mrs. Lulu Barnes. She was divorced from John Barnes, a wealthy lawyer of Chicago, two years before she was married to Dr. Shurtz.

"BIDDY" HEEDS THE CALL

Hen Recognizes Mistress' Voice and Causes Thieves' Arrest

York, Pa.—Somebody was spared a tragic chicken dinner when 14 year old Miss Grace Weiser walked into the poultry house of E. Kinneman and reclaimed her "Biddy" which joyously responded when she called it by name.

"Biddy," who is herself a hen of 14 years and in no way fitted to provide a meal, had been Miss Weiser's pet ever since both were wee chicks. Recently somebody climbed the Weiser fence and stole "Biddy," together with a one-eyed rabbit.

The rabbit also sold to the poultry man, was easily identified, and it only required the pet fowl's response to its mistress' call to convince all of the identity.

William McCleary, 12 years old; Robert Sweitzer, 12, and William Jacobs, 14, have been arrested for the crime.

John M. Parker Roasts "Teddy;" Demands Convention Aug. 5.

New Orleans, La., July 17.—A statement and call to "patriotic men and women of America," to hold a new national convention of the Progressive party in Chicago on Aug. 5, and nominate candidates for president and vice president and continue the party's existence as a distinct political organization was issued here by John M. Parker, vice presidential nominee of the Progressive convention held in Chicago last June. He urges the Progressives to "eternally bury" the bull moose, which, he asserts, "led his loyal followers into the wilderness," and to adopt in its place the American eagle as the emblem of the party.

He declares that the Progressives had as supposed leaders "red blooded Americans, who promised with their 'life blood' to stay with the party to the finish," but that the party had been deserted by a large part of its officers, who could not stand the acid test.

PROF. METCHNIKOFF IS DEAD

Noted Bacteriologist Expires in Paris After Long Illness.

Paris, July 17.—Professor Elie Metchnikoff, the famous bacteriologist, is dead.

Professor Metchnikoff had been in poor health for several months. The first news of his serious condition reached the country in January, when it became known that he was seriously ill with heart disease. His life was despaired of for a time, but he rallied. His physicians announced a few weeks later, however, that the affection had not yielded to treatment and in May they said there was no hope of saving the life of their famous patient.

$50,000 TO FIGHT PLAGUE

Rockefeller Foundation Aids in Combating Infantile Paralysis.

New York, July 17.—The Rockefeller foundation has donated $50,000 for the fight on infantile paralysis. The sum will be spent under the direction of a committee headed by the mayor, with Dr. Simon Flexner as vice chairman.

The number of new cases of infantile paralysis again showed a falling off in a report issued by the health commissioner's office.

AUTO PARTY STRUCK BY TRAIN, FIVE DEAD

Illinoisans Are Victims of Crossing Mishap.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 17.—Five persons were killed and one internally injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a west-bound Wabash passenger train one mile west of this city. The dead are:

Mrs. Mary McSherry, Jacksonville, Ill.; Miss Ellen Groves, Jacksonville, Ill.; Elizabeth Allen, Springfield, Ill.; Allen Bernard, Springfield, Ill.; Mrs. Adolph Bernard, Springfield, Ill.

William Groves, driving the car, was internally injured. Allen Bernard is the son of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Bernard of Springfield. The party had left the Groves farm on their way to church when the accident occurred. All the dead except Mrs. Bernard were instantly killed. She died several hours after being taken to a hospital. She sustained a fractured skull and a broken arm and leg.

PROHIBITIONIST HOPES HIGH

Foes of Liquor Expect to Become Third Party in Campaign.

St. Paul, Minn., July 17.—With confidence that they will outrank the Socialists and swing into line in November as the third political party of the country, representatives of the progressive element in the prohibition organization, who arrived in St. Paul for this week's national convention, announced their plans for a $1,000,000 campaign which they expect to net their ticket no less than 1,000,000 votes.

Dr. R. Leigh Colvin of New York, president of the Intercollegiate Prohibition association, and one of the leaders in the progressive element of the party, declared the coming campaign would mark an epoch in the history of the prohibition movement in America, and establish the party as a menace to the permanency of both the Republican and Democratic organizations.

Andrew Graff, Jr., is here from Chicago to spend a week of his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Graff.

THIRD EPISODE.

It has not been so many years

And that is the reason why this girl who, a few years ago gave budding promise of hopeful, helpful, happy young womanhood, has been robbed of her heritage and the community in which she lives must share the responsibility because it failed to see the need for a tuberculosis sanatorium.

The Remedy

"I got Wilbur to go to a bazaar last night," declared Mrs. Haddon to a friend. "Really, I felt as if I had accomplished as difficult a feat as sending a girl thru college or a boy off to the war."

"How did you do it?" asked the friend in envious admiration. "I have been able to send my daughter and my son to college, but to get my husband deliberately to face a charity bazaar is more than I can ever hope to accomplish."

"It takes diplomacy and infinite tact," said Mrs. Haddon, visibly pluming herself. "I began by placing great emphasis on the kind of dinner that was to be served before the sale began, and upon the people who were to be there. My husband said he hated sitting down to dinner with a lot of people he didn't know, and eating a lot of things made by all sorts of indifferent cooks. I assured him that we were to have a private table, that the food was to be the perfection of cookery and that the waitresses were pretty young girls who would anticipate his every wish."

"He couldn't resist that combination," asked the friend. "None of the inducements you have mentioned would have the slightest effect on my husband."

"Well, I was surprised when Wilbur agreed to meet me at the church at six. I was still more surprised when he appeared on time wearing a smile on his face."

"Did all go merry as a marriage bell?" asked the friend.

"Yes, Wilbur never complained once throughout the evening. The dinner was really delicious. There are no other cooks like those whose doughnuts are inspired by a genuine zeal for a good cause. After the dessert my husband looked as radiant as if he were at some commercial banquet instead of a church bazaar."

"But how was it when he came to the pin cushions and pen wipers, the necktie holders and cases for shaving paper? Didn't he protest then?"

"Not at all. I turned him loose among them as remorsefully as if I was abandoning a child to the waves. It really was delightful to see how gracefully he assumed the high duties of a buyer at a bazaar. I saw him gazing seriously at some violet-scented sachet bags and his attitude toward hand knit neckties was really beautiful. He took chances at guessing how many beads there were in a bottle, purchased several tickets for a raffle and swung his fish pole into a pond of packages with as much eagerness as he would have displayed in catching real fish."

"But did he buy anything?" demanded the friend.

"Buy!" echoed Mrs. Haddon. "He bought everything from a Japanese doll to a linen bedspread. He engaged in a perfect orgy of buying. Why, that man's recklessness made me gasp."

"Every little while he would approach me carrying some perfectly absurd article, a lady's slipper bag or a housekeeper's companion or a pink shell stitch shoulder shawl. Then he would proceed to expatiate on the merits of the articles that he had bought until I was positively ill at the sight of them."

"I tried to caution him under my breath not to buy everything that was shown him, and I endeavored to explain that neither I nor anyone we knew had need of a pink shawl. But he was obdurate and went away gleefully, only to return a little later with a pair of pale bedroom slippers that were too small for any human feet and a boudoir cap that no woman but one who lives in a boudoir would ever wear."

"Don't you believe," asked the friend "that there was method in your husband's madness? Perhaps he was trying to cure you of your interest in such affairs, so that you would cease to entice him to such places?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Haddon, "I thought of that, still, I am not really sure whether it was this or whether he was not affected with a kind of bazaar madness that sometimes overtakes people who attend such affairs."

"Only know that no persuasion on my part would stop him from purchasing the most ridiculous articles, and that he seemed to lose all sense of discrimination or appropriateness."

"The consequence is that the drawers in my closet are filled with a lot of things that I don't know what to do with. When I think of the useful articles that might have been bought with the money spent on these superfluities I could weep."

"I must say," declared her friend, "that I think your husband is a very deep man, a real philosopher. I don't believe he will be asked to attend another bazaar this winter."

"Not by me," declared the man's wife, firmly. "I shall never mention a bazaar again."

Encouraging

"Here, my dear," said the husband, producing his purse, "here's fifty dollars I won playing cards in the smoking room last night. You may have it to buy that dress you wanted."

Reluctantly the conscientious wife took the money, then said, with an expression of rigid rectitude:

"I simply shudder at the thought of using money gained in such a way. Henry, promise me that after you have won enough for me to buy the hat to go with the dress you will never again touch those awful cards. I don't want my husband to become a gambler."

THIS IS CERTAIN

THE PROOF THAT DIXON READERS CANNOT DENY

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

C. J. Kirkham, 522 Peoria Ave., Dixon, says: "I suffered from pains across my back for a long time. I didn't think the trouble was caused by disordered kidneys, but when a friend recommended Doan's Pills, I got a box at Leake Bros. Drug store. They completely rid me of the backache and all other symptoms of kidney complaint."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER, Mr. Kirkham said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney disease and the cure has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kirkham has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

T. E. WELCH, Agent

His Dramatic Gifts

"Speaking of trials," said Mrs. Philbin in a conversational tone, "Albert
has gone on the stage!"

"Not really?" the other woman shrieked after they had caught their breaths.

"No," said Mrs. Philbin, "not really."
—Just on the amateur stage. But it's lots worse than real acting. I don't know anything better calculated to make a staid, grownup man kick up his heels, buy new neckties and generally conduct himself in a kittenish way than a request that he lend his presence to an amateur production. It bolsters him up in his secret conviction that he is a perfect mine of undiscovered genius.

"Oh no!" he said at first. "You don't want me! I never acted in anything in my life and I can't do it! I'd ruin the piece! Get some one else!" Afterward
he told me that he hated to disoblige them but he really couldn't do it. I congratulated him on his good sense, whereupon he looked at me as tho
he had caught me trying to poison him. He said he regretted to see how little confidence I had in his ability and was pained at my exhibition of jealousy.

"Then he raced to the phone and told the committee that just to oblige them and help them out of a hole he'd take the part.

"After that Albert was lost to the family. He passed three whole evenings running his hands thru his hair and memorizing his part. If I spoke to him he would stare at me wildly as tho he belonged to another sphere.

"After he went to the first rehearsal life became very hard at home because Albert took to going over what he called the 'business' of his part. It is disconcerting to have a man, even if he is your husband, rush at you from behind portieres and wander about with the furniture in his hands muttering to himself.

"Mrs. Lemmock called one evening and walked in just as Albert tore thru from the dining room into the parlor
shaking his fist and yelling, I have you now, you moral leper, and your life—
your life is not worth an hour's purchase! You can't blame Mrs. Lemmock for taking it personally, especially as Albert's fist was flourishing within an inch of her nose.

"During this time if I remarked to Albert that the cook was going to leave he would stare at me and say,
'So—at last, Montmorency, I have unmasked you!' It was impossible to carry on any conversation with Albert for weeks. He was always bursting out with bits of his part. Finally he insisted on my learning the part that dovetailed with his so that he could practice at home.

"Now, I love my husband and always try to please him, but I consider this my crowning act of self-sacrifice.
Of course Albert was working for the public applause, but if any one wants to know what is my idea of zero in pleasant pastimes, I should mention rehearsals a part that you aren't going to play. Anyhow, it's upsetting to have your own husband lean over you tenderly, gaze into your eyes and make desperate love to you in dime novel style! It makes you feel so queer!

"By the third rehearsal Albert had begun to talk about his art and to speak of well known stage people by their first names. He mentioned the public as tho he had it eating out of his hand, and he adopted the stage walk. When he stalked down stairs he thudded like a camel and when he stalked upstairs I always thought of elephants. He knocked all the bric-a-brac to pieces parading thru the rooms
and when he talked he either boomed or hissed. He demanded potatoes in a voice of tragedy and took to standing before mirrors in profile frowning over his shape. He said the mirrors were old and worn out, and that was what gave him a curve out instead of a curve in.

"He got terribly fretful and when I objected he told me that I should make allowances for the artistic temperament and that the stage manager had told him if he had gone on the stage
when he was a youth he undoubtedly would have rivaled Mansfield. Albert gloomed and tyrannized and had me jumping six ways at once hunting up his costume and buying grease paint and eyebrow pencils and false hair and letting him repeat his part to me and assuring him that he was entrancing
in it.

"When I was worn to shreds the play was given, and I had my revenge.
I went around into the wings to see if Albert needed any help, and fell over a shivering, crouching, chattering individual trying to hide behind a canvas tree and a rustic gate. To my amazement it was Albert.

"He grabbed me with two ice cold
hands, and clung to me for dear life.
He said he'd die if he had to get out there before all those people. Oh, he moaned, wouldn't I save him?"

"I looked him in the eye and said,
'Albert this is just another phase of the artistic temperament, and I won't flicker an eyelash to help you! And if you fall in your part I—I'll leave home!'

"Albert was ill for two days after the play from the nervous strain, and when he got up and around he was quite sane again. And I may add he's a great deal more humble than he used to be!"

Minor Miracles of Nature.

There are certain Arctic animals,
dark-coated in the short summer,
that in winter turn pure white, thus matching the snow-covered landscape and escaping notice and harm.

This change of color, this protection, effected no one knows how, is wonderful, as wonderful as a miracle, and kept a kindred change of color, a kindred protection, happens among mankind every summer and nobody ever notices it.

When the pale city people go out in the summer sun of the seashore
or the mountains the light attacks them fiercely, first reddening their skin, then swelling, blistering and scorching it. If they kept in the sun enough and if no miracle occurred
the light would kill them finally, burning off the skin first and afterward attacking the raw flesh.

But a miracle does occur. The sun may beat on tan-colored skin for days and weeks, but such skin remains always sound, unblistered,
whole, says the Chicago Chronicle.

To prove the miracle—to prove that it is not the darkening of the skin, but the change in its color which protects it from sunburn—is an easy matter.

Let a pale person, unused to the sun, stain one side of his face yellow, and leaving the other side untouched, go out in the bright sun for a couple of hours. The one side of his face is no tougher, no more hardened, than the other, yet the unstained side will be inflamed, blistered, while the tan colored one will be quite cool and unharmed.

Sunburn is a miracle, a protection to mankind, as inexplicable and as wonderful as the miracle of the Arctic animals' change in the winter
from dark coats to snow-white ones.

Dreams and Dreamers.

Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, is said to have recorded a dream in which a bumblebee stung him in his left thigh,
on a place where a couple of days later appeared an ugly ulcer. Male-sherbe, the renowned French author,
found himself in a dream attacked by a rowdy who stabbed him in his left breast with a dagger in an area where the following evening he felt the first attack of severe pneumonia.
"The archives of medical reports," says Dr. Axel Emil Gibson, "are heavy with cases of a similar character, which have either received no explanation at all or else have been explained away entirely."

Dr. Gibson calls attention to the fact that dreams depend on some other media than those known as the five senses. A conclusive evidence in favor of this view is found in the circumstances that even the blind are able to see in dreams—as witness experiences recorded by Helen Keller, "Blind Tom," the poet
Milton and others. Hence the conclusion seems to be unavoidable that it is only as far as physical vision is concerned that the optic nerve guides and limits the field of vision.

This same author arrives at the deduction that dreaming and waking differ in degree and form of manifestation only, not in principle and essence. "Like waking consciousness," he avers, "the dream reveals, but does not create. The same world that surrounds the waking individual surrounds the dreaming, only the viewpoints and media of observation are changed.—Exchange.

Bad Weather Criminals.

Crime has more than a casual or accidental relation to a falling barometer. A low pressure area on the weather map ought to be a good signal for high pressure activity on the part of the police in the region affected. The normal brain is constructed to bear with comfort and convenience an atmospheric pressure of nearly 15 pounds to the square inch. If one lives on the mountain tops one may become accustomed to a little less, and if one dwells in the valleys, to a little more; but any considerable variation in either direction from the accustomed mean is likely to seriously disturb one's mental and moral, as well as physical, equilibrium.

"It is known that exhilaration
comes from ascending a mountain—
provided one doesn't climb too high.
It is known that a little relaxation of the everlasting pressure exerted by miles of superimposed atmosphere is life to men with weak lungs, but death to those with weak hearts. The effect on the mind and morals is just as obvious. The mechanism that preserves a man's mental balance is delicately adjusted. A little variation in pressure, or a trifling excess or deficiency in the amount of oxygen, nitrogen, ozone, carbon dioxide, or any other element or impurity in the air that sustains life, may cause a man to behave in a manner that would be quite impossible under strictly normal conditions.

Strenuous Life of Writers.

The strenuous life in literary circles seems to have antedated the present era. Bryant was only 19
when Thanatopsis won him undying fame, Shelley was 18 when he wrote Queen Mab, Voltaire's first tragedy was published when he was but 22.
Keats gave Endymion to the world
at the age of 22, while David is said to have written the First Psalm at the age of 18, and history has it that Homer wrote his first odes at the tender age of 23.

Curb Widow's Expenditures.

The Lambeth (London) Board of Guardians has decided that no outdoor relief should be given to the widows
during the first six months of widowhood if they have spent lavishly on funeral and mourning any money received from a club, insurance society
or other source.
